Striving to Maintain Healthy Public Finances

- Government expenditure has entered a consolidation period. Long-term financial commitments should be commensurate with the increase in revenue

- Maintain the development and vibrancy of our economy, and identify new areas of growth for increasing revenue
- There is a need to implement measures to increase revenue without affecting people's livelihood, but this is not the appropriate time to revise the rates of profits tax and salaries tax
- The introduction of the global minimum tax rate in 2023 may help increase revenue from profits tax
- Propose to introduce a progressive rating system for domestic properties to reflect the "affordable users pay" principle

Public
Finance

Proposed future progressive rating system for domestic properties

Effective date: 2024/25

Scope of application: Domestic properties
(excluding public rental housing)

Current rates percentage: Flat rate of 5% of rateable value
